THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

By the Governor of Wisconsin.

A PROCLAMATION.

"Another year of health, peace and prosperity has been vouchsafed unto the people of Wisconsin, mercifully reminding them to acknowledge in a befitting manner their gratitude to Almighty God and dependence upon him for the blessings of His paovidence:

Wherefore, in obedience to the custom of the country, now wisely sanctioned by law, and conforming to the recent proclamation of the President of the United States, in that behalf, I, WILLIAM E. SMITH, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby appoint

Thursday, the 28th day of November, instant,

as a day of public thanksgiving and praise; and I recommend to all the people of Wisconsin, on that day, to show forth their gratitude, by liberal benefactions to the poor, by visits to the sick and to the afflicted, and by such religious and social festivities as shall comport with the occasion and best enable them to praise the Lord; to make known His deeds among the people and talk of all His wondrous works.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at [SEAL.] the city of Madison, this seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

By the Governor: WILLIAM E. SMITH.
HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

AN EXPERIMENT WITH THE SOUTH.

In American politics there is no subject which is more difficult of solution than that which is known by the name of the Southern Question. When the South began to recover from the disastrous effects of the war, its people began the work of making the South solid as against the North. They made war against the "carpet baggers," they organized their Klu-Klux forces, they soon began to intimidate the negroes—or in other words to disfranchise them or make them vote the Democratic ticket. Things have gone on from bad to worse, until there have been committed by the chivalrous people of the South, murders outrages, and frauds, unparalleled in the history of this or any other country. It has finally come to this, that politically speaking, the South is solid, that if violence and intimidations will prevent it, none but Democrats will be elected to office in the Southern States. Now the question is, and it is a grave one, what remedy shall be employed to bring about a different state of things? What can be done to annihilate sectionalism, to make the interests of the North and the South identical, to make life, property, speech, and the ballot, as secure in South Carolina as they are in Michigan or Wisconsin? There is the same law regarding election in New York as there is in South Carolina, or any other Southern State, and yet in New York the Republicans are not disfranchised, while in the South they are.

It is then asked, what can be done to secure to the Republicans of the South a free exercise of the franchise? to give them the right to vote for whom they please, without let or hindrance, and to totally obliterate the color-line? It is suggested that there be an interchange of political speakers. Let some of the best and well known Southern orators, such as Hampton, Lamar, and Ben Hill, come North during a campaign, and talk to our people on the questions which divide the great parties. Then let such men as Blaine, Conkling, Congressman Williams, of this State, Bob Ingersoll, all men of national reputations as speakers, go South, and talk to the people there. This plan if allowed to be carried out would result in good. Hampton, Lamar, and Hill, could come to Wisconsin, and would be kindly received and attentively heard; but could Blaine, Conkling, Williams, or Ingersoll, go to Alabama or South Carolina and talk Republican doctrine to the people, without being insulted by the chivalry of the South?" Under the present state of feeling existing there, we doubt if they could.

But we suggest that two years hence, when the contest shall take place for the Presidency that such an interchange of speakers be made—that free speech be put to a test in the South, and that the Democratic party be held responsible for the result. The Republicans are ready to receive from the South its Hamptons, its Lamars, and its Ben Hills; and are the Southern Democrats ready to extend a cordial reception to our Blaines, our Conklings, our Williams, and our Ingersolls? The Republicans stand ready to work with the South for a revival of trade and industry between the two sections, for the banishment of all internal dissensions, and for the honorable contest between the political parties. Is the Democratic party of the South willing to cease its outrages and frauds, and meet the Republicans of the North half way?

OF QUESTIONABLE TASTE.

There is in Chicago a charity institution called the Women's and Children's Hospital, which is under the management of some of the leading and wealthy ladies in that city. The work of the hospital is a righteous one, and is doing great good for the homeless and the distressed women and children who are so fortunate as to find a home therein. It is supported by private donations which come in in a tolerably generous manner. Last week America's sweetest and greatest singer was in Chicago with an Italian opera company. Whenever and wherever she sings, the applause of the multitude who hear her, is showered upon her. Miss Clara Louise Kellogg and three or four of the opera company, kindly tendered their services gratis, for three parlor concerts for the benefit of the Women's and Children's Hospital. The last of the series was held at the palatial residence of Mrs. George M. Pullman, whose husband is known in America and Europe as the inventor of the Pullman car. The parlors of the residence will comfortably seat 400 persons. They who entered the mansion for the first time were dazzled and amazed by the extraordinary beauty and the indescribable magnificence of such a dwelling place. The rooms were filled on Friday afternoon, and each one who entered paid two dollars. But some of the poor, for whose benefit the concert was given, were there, and were admitted free, and allowed probably for the first time in their lives, to feel the peculiar influence of sitting in the presence of the highest fashion, and of being surrounded by dazzling splendor. Miss Kellogg, the great object of attraction, whose sweet and remarkable voice drew together such an audience, sang several pieces, and the way she sang them, and the influence the singing had upon the feelings of those who love music, can never be described. But there is another thing about Miss Kellogg, which the gay and the fashionable admire beside her voice—her dress. On Friday she is decribed as appearing in the most rich and superb costume, the finest ever seen in America off the stage. The dress was of wine colored velvet, made in Paris by Worth. There were glittering upon it over 500 solid silver buttons. The front was cloth-of-gold, square neck, filled in with magnificent point lace, and a grand court train. Her hair was described as being dressed in puffs, and embellished with numerous and magnificent diamonds. Massive solitaires adorned her ears, while about her neck, was a necklace of costly emeralds with diamonds. Thus, while singing for the poor women and children, and in the presence of some of them, Miss Kellogg appeared as one of the richest dressed ladies off the stage this country ever saw. The question is, was it in good taste for Miss Kellogg to thus appear on that occasion? While, it is true, she caused to be reaped a little harvest for the Women's and Children's Hospital, did not her extravagant dress, and her numerous and costly diamonds, all displayed for effect, stir up a spirit of envy the influence of which will prove exceedingly hurtful? A few years ago, Miss Kellogg was in Philadelphia singing with an opera troupe and put up at the Continental hotel. The dining room girls, several score in number, wanted to hear the prima donna, but could not afford to pay $2.00 or $3.00 each for a seat. Miss Kellogg heard of their wish, and volunteered to give them a free concert in the great dining hall. An opportune hour was selected, and the concert took place. Miss Kellogg's taste was deservedly censured. She appeared before the plain dining room girls of the Continental, in robes more rich and in diamonds more costly and sparkling than were ever worn by the first lady in the land. She did not so much desire to allow the girls the privilege of hearing her sing with matchless beauty, as to display the remarkable richness of her dress. Kellogg is fond of show, fond of newspaper puffs of her costly dresses and magnificent and glittering diamonds, and loves to be admired, and very frequently her ambition to show her Paris dresses, subjects her to criticism.

In the city of New York there are 375 churches, which are divided among the denominations as follows, according to the New York Times: Protestant Episcopal, 73; Roman Catholic, 54; Methodist Episcopal, 50; Presbyterian, 41; Baptist, 31; Jews, 25; Lutheran, 21; Dutch Reformed, 20; African Methodist Episcopal, 9; United Presbyterian, 7; Congregational, 6; Reformed Presbyterian, 5; Universalist, 5; Unitarian, 4; Friends, 3; miscellaneous, 21, among the last, 1 True Dutch Reformed, 1 Swedenborgian, 1 Greek Catholic.

Governor Smith appointed the following delegates from this State to attend the National Commercial Convention which will meet in New Orleans on the 3d of December: S. T. Merrill, Beloit; Major E. L. Pierce, Oshkosh; Hon. C. Seymour, La Crosse; Hon. John Lawler, Prairie du Chien; N. S. Turner, Ozaukee; Hon. E. D. Holton, Milwaukee; Hon. G. W. Allen, Milwaukee; Hon. D. M. Kelley, Green Bay; J. S. Partridge Whitewater; Hon. R. B. Wentworth, Portage.

A Chicago physician writes a letter to the Inter Ocean suggesting a method which he thinks will put an end to body-snatching. His proposition is that all the doctors be sent to the dissecting room immediately after, and in that way bull the market for subjects until the resurrection business won't pay.

The New York Sun, which is always Democratic, says, "it has passed into a parable that for the last dozen years the Republican party has lived through the imbecility and blundering of the Democracy." That is so, in a measure. The Democrats have helped the Republicans out of some tight places.

The Attorney-General of Tennessee recently appointed a negro lawyer, Frank Cassells, Assistant Attorney-General, which is creating a great commotion and considerable bitterness among the white lawyers. It is said, however that public sentiment sustains the appointment.

People in Chicago complain of hard times, but amusement seekers felt generous enough to pay $2,300 per night to hear the Kellogg Opera Company. The receipts of the two weeks' season, foot up $28,000.

Hon. D. M. Kelley, of Green Bay, will probably be the next Speaker of the Assembly. He is the best man yet named for the position. He is both willing and capable.

A county seat town in Kansas has decided by a majority of forty-three to be named in honor of Susan B. Anthony. Susan can make a town change its name, if not her own.

Bob Ingersoll says the next President of the United States will be the Republican nominee, and he thinks it will be either Blaine ou Grant.

MAINE.

Reported that Senator Blaine has Secured the Control of the State Legislature.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25—The report comes from Maine that Senators Blaine and Hamlin have arranged to elect Smith, Greenbacker, candidate for Governor; and it is said that members of the State Senate have received their instructions accordingly. Smith's greenback creed appears to make no difference so long as he agrees to carry out Blaine's wishes; and report goes even further and says that Smith has been promised the Republican nomination for a second term if he will come out of the Greenback party.

INDICTED.

The Superintendent of the New York Salt Springs Up for Crookedness.

Special to the Gazette.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 25—Political circles were excited to day by a report that Hon. A. C. Powell, of this city, Superintendent of the State salt springs, had been cited to appear before the Governor to answer charges preferred against him by five citizens of Syracuse, to night. The report has been confirmed. He is charged with violating the law in holding the office of Superintendent, and at the same being interested as an owner in salt works. He is also charged with selling to a firm of which he is a member, for insignificant considerations, by him; also with buying for the State, machinery manufactured at shops in which he alleged to be a partner, at exorbitant prices. Powell was appointed by Governor Dix, in 1874; his term expired in 1877, but he has held over on account of the failure on the part of the Governor and Senate to agree upon a successor. The affair creates a stir, particularly among Republican politicians, among whom Powell stands very high. The office is one of great importance, and has always been a bone of contention in political divisions. Powell is now preparing an answer, in which he denies every count of indictment.

THE MESSAGE.

What the President will have to Say in Relation to Political Matters in the South.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—In his forthcoming message the President will make the reported outrages and violations of law in the South during the late Congressional elections a topic of comment. These violations will be condemned as forcibly depriving a large number of citizens, in specified localities, of rights conferred by both the National and State authority, thus preventing results expressive of their will in the administration of public affairs. Such proceedings will be further deprecated because they indicate that the pacification of the South is not yet complete, and because they cast a reproach upon and endanger the integrity of free institutions. The subject will be earnestly presented to the consideration of Congress for such action as circumstances demand, with a view to preventing a reoccurrence of such wrongs, and to secure the absolute exercise of the right of suffrage.

HUMBERT.

His Triumphal Entry into the Eternal City—The Loyalty of the People.

ROME, Nov. 24.—The return of King Humbert and Queen Marguerite was made the occasion of a grand ovation from the people of Rome. Their Majesties arrived at the capital on the Naples Railway promptly at 3 o'clock. The weather was delightful, and the trip had been made under the enjoyable circumstances. The Eternal City was in its gayest festival dress, flags and flowser, evergreens and bunting being found on all the street. The railway station was a mass of fluttering banners. The King, Queen, Prince of Naples and the Duke of Aosta (ex-King Amadeus, of Spain, and Signor Cairoli occupied an open gala carriage, drawn by six horses magnificently caparisoned. Carriages belonging to the suite of their Majesties, and to the many distinguished of the nobility who met them at the station, swelled the cortege to great length. All then drove to the Quirinal through a double line of troops. Hundreds of officers walked beside the vehicle of the King. The windows of the houses along the route were filled with people, and stands for spectators, erected at all the street crossings, were trimmed with flowers and crowded with enthusiastic citizens, who screamed themselves hoarse.

King Humbert looked well and seemed delighted with his triumphal re-entry of the city. He was dressed in the uniform of a general, which he is entitled to wear. Queen Marguerite looked charming, though a trace of anxiety was observable in her face. She was attired in white silk. After reaching the palace, a great crowd gathered before the main entrance and cheered until the King and Queen appeared on a balcony. The King courteously responded to the hearty welcome.

To-night there is a general illumination.

LORNE AND LOUISE.

Their Safe Arrival At Halifax—The Reception Ceremony To-day.

HALIFAX, Nov. 25—There is every prospect of good weather and a grand reception to-day. Gen. McDougall, administrator of the government, and Five Admiral Inglefield, visited Lorne and Princess Louise this morning on board the Sarmatian, at anchor down the harbor.

The Marquis and Princess left the Sarmatian at 1 o'clock in a steam launch and went on board H. M. S. Black Prince, where they lunched with the Duke of Edinburgh. After lunch the Marquis and Princess Louise landed and drove to Maplewood, the residence of Gen. McDougall.

The city is decorated in a manner never before attempted by our citizens. Public buildings, business houses, and private dwellings are one mass of evergreens and banners, arranged in every conceivable style.

At the dock yard, where the landing will take place, three beautiful arches composed of evergreens and decked with many colored flags will stare the viceregal in the face. The smaller one to the left will, among other things, bear the Prince of Wales' feathers, and that to their right crossed anchors worked in white and red. Passing down the yard toward the main gate the official residences will be seen literally enveloped in bunting and green branches. Rainbows of flags hang in every direction, and at intervals there are floral designs which greatly enhance their beauty. At the gate through which the party pass in carriages to join the procession without a magnificent arch has been built, bearing on its center a crown topped by a Maltese cross. From every available point the British jack flutters in the breeze.

THE MUTUAL LIFE.

The New Plan of the Mutual Life Sustained by Legal Opinions.

BOSTON, Nov. 24—Judge Dwight Foster and Peleg W. Chandler of this city, have given a written opinion sustaining the legality of the new plan of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, about which there has been so much recent controversy. They declare that the company's new contracts rebating 30 per cent of the two first years' premiums are as valid as any it ever made.

TEN-DOLLAR BONDS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The World's Washington correspondent says Secretary Sherman, in his coming annual report, will renew his recommendation of last year that a new bond of small denomination, bearing less than 4 per cent interest, be authorized, in order to enable persons of small means to accumulate sufficient sums to buy 4 per cent bonds. The Secretary has determined to recommend a $10 bond, bearing 3.65 per cent. He did not fix upon any rate of interest in his last report.

SET HER FREE.

MILWAUKEE, Wis, Nov. 24.—The attempt to consign Mrs. Fred Boynton, daughter of Charles H. Wheeler, of Chicago, to an insane asylum because she had not obtained her mother's consent to her marriage, proved an utter failure. Judge Mann dismissed the application for a warrant, and set her free.

An Interesting Puzzle.

Perhaps some of our readers are not familiar with the following puzzle: a young man asked an old man for his daughter in marriage. The answer was: "Go into the orchard and bring in a parcel of apples. Give me one-half of the whole number, and the mother one-half of the balance and half an apple over, and have one left for yourself, without cutting the apple, and then, if she is willing, you can have her." He solved the question, and how many did he bring? Fourteen, as you can easily prove. The old man had one-half, which was seven. The old woman was to have one-half of the balance, which would be three and a half, and half an apple over, which would give her two, and leave the lover his one without cutting his apple."

ARRIVING IMMIGRANTS.

The Official Statistics of the Past Nine Months and the Deduction Therefrom.

Immigration, as shown by the statistics of arrivals in New York, is not in so great a volume for the first nine months of this year for the same period of last, there having been 47,039 arrivals in 1877, and only 41,915 in 1878. But the tendency, now, is to increase; in October of last year 5,208 immigrants came, while in the October just closed there came 8,039. It is quite certain that the character of the correspondence now crossing the Atlantic in both directions tends to the steady swelling of the tide; those who are abroad picture in dark colors the condition of labor there; while, by comparison, the tenor of the letters sent from the United States has grown much more cheerful within the last year. A large proportion of those who come over do so as the result of advice, or at least of information sent them by friends and relatives here, and when the movement increases it is proof that our laboring people, comparing their situation with that of the same class in Europe, are inclined to be hopeful. One of the interesting features of the statistics on the subject, though one not new at all, is the small contingent furnished by Ireland. One of the eight thousand and over arriving in October only 1,182 were from that country, while England sent 1,485 and Germany 2,636. The aggregate of France and Italy reached 1,082—almost as many as Ireland—though we are accustomed to consider the increase of our population from those countries as not at all considerable in volume. It is quite apperent that the condition of the Irish people has been materially improved and that the disposition to imigrate is much diminished. Germany, on the other hand, is likely to send us in future an increasing number of her people. The rule of "blood and iron," the depression in industry, and the oppression of the military system will continue to drive hither thousands of those now subject to these hard conditions.

A Remarkable Death-Bed Confession.

From the Catoctin (M. D.) Clarion.

Charles Bradford, a young man of wealth and position, who recently died at Union Square, Frederick county, on his death-bed confessed to having been the author of numerous letters during the last four years, which have been the source of many quarrels and annoyances to persons living in the neighborhood of New Market and Linganore. He also refers to two letters sent to New Windsor, Carroll county, and pronounces the lady and gentleman as innocent of the crimes reputed to them. He made the statement in the presence of Bishop Pinkney, who noted down his confession and will vouch for its correctness. In concluding he says: "Now I have righted this wrong I can die in peace, trusting in God to pardon my sin and weakness."

Mighty Spans.

Newcomb's Astronomy: To give an idea of the relative distances, suppose a voyager through the celestial space could travel from the sun to the outermost planet of our system in twenty-four hours. So enormous would be his velocity that it would carry him across the Atlantic ocean, from New York to Liverpool, in less than a tenth of a second of the clock. Starting from the sun with this velocity, he would cross the orbits of the inner planets in rapid succession, and the outer ones more slowly, until, at the end of a single day, he would reach the confines of our system, crossing the orbit of Neptune. But, though he passed eight planets the first day, he would pass none the next; for he would have to journey eighteen or twenty years, without diminution of speed, before he would reach the nearest star, and would then have to journey as far again before he could reach another. All the planets of our system would have vanished in the distance in the course of the first three days, and the sun would be but an insignificant star in the firmament.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

INGERSOLL.

What He Thinks of the Political Situation—He Believes that the Republican Party and Hard Money Will Win in 1880, and that Hayes as a President is Fair—Fair—County Fair.

I found him in his shirt sleeves, reclining at his ease on the top of his bed, his feet—they were feet, reader, and not hoofs—incased in hose of snowy purity. As I closed the door he rolled over on his side, extended his hand, and said, "Glad to see you; take off your overcoat; help yourself to a cigar," pointing to a box on the table, almost in one breath. As I seated myself in a chair at his bedside, his manager, Mr. James Redpath, entered, and, after being introduced to him, I began my mission by saying: "Colonel, I have been requested by the Enquirer to have a talk with you about politics and the political situation.

Finally, I put the main question plump to him, as follows: "Colonel, who will be elected President in 1880?"

"Whoever the Republicans party nominates," was the reply.

"Why do you say so?" I asked.

"Because a Solid South will make a Solid North," responded the Colonel. "One hundred thousand Democratic majority in South Carolina means 50,000 Republican majority in New York. It will be civilization against semi-barbarism. I sincerely wish the war could be forgotten and buried but the Southerners will not permit. The Republican party demands that every man in the South, black or white, should have the right to vote as he pleases, without let or hindrance; and, unless that demand is answered in good faith in the affirmative, their refusal will consolidate the Republican party and all fair-minded men in the North in solid phalanx." The Colonel then went into a dissertation on the powers of the Government, claiming that the doctrine of State's Rights was largely responsible for our troubles: "Said he: "The Government in time of war, claimed and exercised the right to take whosoever it plessed and placed him in the ranks of the army. Now, if one of the men so taken should find it convenient or to his advantage to locate in one of the Southern States, and if he should be a Republican in politics, has he not the right to demand that the General Government shall protect him fully in the right to vote as he pleases without being harassed or annoyed therefor in any manner by those who fought the Government when he was its servant? It certainly looks so to me, and I think it does to any fair-minded man."

"You resume in 1879, and are able to maintain resumption," said he, "the financial question will be solved, and it will be no longer a factor in politics. To oblige the east the Democracy will be obliged to vote a hard-money man, and that will lose the party the support of Indiana and other Western States essential to its success in the Presidential contest. If, on the contrary, a Greenback man is nominated, the Democracy cannot hope for success in the East, and between the two stools it looks as if it was destined to fall to the ground."

"What do you think of the report that Hayes has gone over to the 'Stalwarts'?" I asked.

"I don't think much of it at all," was the reply; "perhaps the President has discovered that the Republican party is superior to any of its leaders and that it can dispense with any of them. That is the great merit of the Republican party—it can get along without a leader. If Mr. Conkling, for instance, and he has been of great service to the party, was to abandon the Republican party, his secession would not make any material difference in the Republican vote of New York at the next election. A friend of mine asked me the the other day what kind of a President Hayes was. I replied that he was fair, fair—county fair." Here the Colonel laughed at this sally of wit, and upon my allusion to the President's Southern trip a year ago, he said: "I wonder if that trip wasn't made with the intent to galvanize the old Whig party into life again! What a fraud the Whig party was," continued the Colonel; "it always had a leader,—Mr. Clay or Mr. Webster,—and the instant it got into power it began to apologize for all its acts. When Mr. Clay and Mr. Webster died the party died with them. One day last winter I was in Washington, and I saw an old Virginian selling coon-tail brushes. He wanted me to buy one, and I told him I would give him $5 if he would take one of them up to the White House and tell Hayes that he had been all through the South, and that was all of the Whig party he could find left above ground. The old fellow got mad and said, 'By God he wouldn't demean himself that much for $5.'" Here the Colonel laughed again as he thought of the sorry figure cut by the defunct party. Mr. Ingersoll is of the opinion that President Hayes has been handsomely treated by the Republican party, but he foresees a little bit of trouble in store for him yet in his own party. Said he, "The President desired to make a change in the New York Custom House, and Conkling said 'No.' The President waited until Congress adjourned, and then made the change. When Congress convenes Conkling will go back with the prestige of a re-election to the Senate, and when the question of confirming Mr. Hayes' appointments comes up in the Senate, he will make the fur fly, or I am much mistaken." In conclusion, Mr. Ingersoll reiterated his belief that the Republicans would carry the next Presidential election—that is, provided it could maintain resumption, and announced that his first choice for President was still the Plumed Knight Blaine, though he was free to confess that Grant stood a splended chance for the nomination.

Chronic Diseases

—OF THE—

THROAT, LUNGS, HEART, STOMACH, LIVER.

Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c.

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

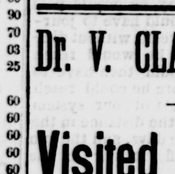

My practice not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

THE ART OF FIRE-MAKING.

How Our Grandmothers Kept the Fire Alight.

In early ages, "when wild in the woods the noble savage ran," compliance with the request "Will you give me a light, please?" involved, if the camp fires had gone out, a spell of unremitting hard work, considerable manual dexterity and an unstinted application of "elbow-grease." The primitive mode of striking a fire was by rubbing one piece of dry wood upon another until incandescence was induced. Probably Jabal, the father of dwellers in tents and herdsmen, and Jubal, the father of musicians, were indebted, when they needed a light, to Tubal Cain, their half-brother, the "first artificer in brass and iron," who doubtless "gathered" his smithy fire so that it might smolder through the night and be ready for blowing up in the morning.

HOW OUR GRANDMOTHERS KEPT THE FIRE ALIGHT.

Our grandmothers kept the kitchen fire alight all night by placing a block of coal upon it and packing it with small coal or ashes, so as to allow it to smolder only till the morning. The first triumph of "applied science" in "striking a light" lay in the discovery of the combined capabilities of burned linen, or tinder, flint and steel and brimstone-tipped matches, or "spunks," as they were called in some parts of the country. The sinder was usually a domestic production; the tinder boxes and steels, or "frizzles," were made at Birmingham or Wolverhampton, where a considerable business was done in these articles. The flint was had from where it could be picked up, and the manufacturers and venders of the matches were chiefly poor old women. The steel was of the form of the letter U elongated and reversed, the narrower stalk being the handle; the broader, which had a serrated outer edge, was used for striking the piece of flint, and producing the sparks which ignited the tinder, which in turn lighted the brimstone-tipped match. The lighted tinder, when it had served its purpose, was extinguished by a close-fitting inner cover that was pressed down upon it.

THE FLINT AND STEEL.

The flint and steel were also used for lighting match-paper—thick, porous paper that had been dipped in a solution of saltpeter and afterward dried. The match-paper was held close to the piece of flint, with its edge at the point of impact with the steel. It ignited readily and burned freely but without flame. Amandon or German timber and "touchwood," being woody tissue in a certain state of decay, were sometimes used in the same way as match-paper. The methods of igniting fire, as has been seen, were up to this point by rude mechanical expedients. It is only during the last half century that science may be said to have been applied to the manufacture of matches. One of the earliest novelties was the "instantaneous lightning-box," which contained a bottle charged with sulphuric acid and fibrous asbestos. The tipped match was let into the bottle and caught fire in contact with the acid. The revolution in match-making and the origin of the match manufacture as a large and important industry may be said to date from the introduction of phosphorus as an igniting agent applied in various ways. The curious scientific toys, the "instantaneous lightning" and "phosphorus boxes," had a limited sale at a guinea each, afterwards reduced by degrees to a shilling. There are now matches in the market that sell at the rate of 900 for a halfpenny.—Good Words.

THIRTY-NINE LASHES

How They Are Applied to the Backs of Virginia Criminals.

From the Richmond (Va.) State.

"Austin Mitchell, fesien the prisoner," said the officer to a colored inmate of the jail; and Jones' wrists were made secure in iron fastenings on the post. Now all was ready.

William Jones is a tall, well-built man, of about thirty-five years, and would weigh one hundred and sixty or one hundred and seventy pounds. His face was clean shaved save his upper lip, which wore a short brown mustache, and he would be called rather a good looking man. He was once a respectable citizen, being well connected and having been well raised, but yielding to temptation several years ago, he got caught and has served a term in the penitentiary. Afterward he served a term in jail, which was only a few weeks ago. He then received 39 lashes, and upon being turned loose he cribbed a pair of shoes, valued at $1.50, for which he was sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes again and to work in the chain gang for six months. And yet after being catalogued with the "old offenders," Jones looked as though he would like to reform and regain his whilom self-respect. "Oh, for the halcyon days!" he sighed, as he stood fastened to the post. He had felt the whip before and knew what to expect. It was worse than having a tooth pulled—worse than any punishment that he could conceive. The officer, who was not devoid of feeling, said, "Jones, I don't like to whip you, and I'm going to surprise you. Here goes, One, two, three," etc., counting. The officer used a long cowhide, and each lick brought the blood to the skin. The stripes were laid across the back. The whipper did not appear to inflict very hard licks, but by a sort of sleight-of-hand—"a simple twist" of the wrist—they stung to the quick. The prisoner kept a steady body, but his face was a psychological study. The writhing of the muscles, the agony, the shame, these were intense. He uttered not a word, but the tears rolled down his cheeks and the spectators who happened to be in the jail-yard turned their heads. He though he was to receive nine and thirty, but when the tenth stripe had been inflicted the officer said: "That'll do for to-day, unloose him." Then Jones was unfastened and putting on his shirt he walked back into his cell. The officer informed the writer that he had never whipped a white woman, but that he had whipped about as many colored girls as he had men. "We make them strip down to the waist and I lay the stripes on pretty hard. An Ethiopian's back is tough and can stand it. It's mean business, though, this thing of whipping."

Good Suggestions for Girls.

From the St. Louis Spirit.

The time has passed when woman must be pale, delicated, to be interesting,—when she must be totally ignorant of all practical knowledge to be called refined and high bread—when she must know nothing of the day, or be called masculine and strong-minded. It is not a sign of high birth or refinement, to be sickly and ignorant. Those who affect anything of the kind are behind the times, and must shake and air themselves, mentally, physically, or drop under the firm strides of common sense ideas, and be crushed into utter insignificance. In these days an active, rosy-faced girl, with brain quick and clear, warm, light heart, a temper quickly heated at intended insult or injury, and just as quick to forgive; whose feet can run just as fast as her tongue, and put her out of breath; who is not afraid of freckles, or to breathe the pure air of heaven, unrestrainted by the drawn curtains of a close carriage, and, above all, who can speak her mind and give her opinion on important topics which interest intelligent people—is the true girl who will make a good woman. Even fops and dandies who strongly oppose woman's rights, like a woman who can talk well, even if she is not handsome.

CHINAMEN TAKING THE OATH.

How a Chicken's Head Fell as the Mongolians Swore.

From the Los Angelos (Cal.) Herald, October 30.

In the County Court the trial of the People against Ah Chee and Ah Quong, indicted for robbing a China woman of jewelry and other valuables, was begun today. The parties to the suit being all Mongolians, it was concluded to swear the witness by the most binding Chinese form. As the ceremony consisted of sacrifice both of fire and blood, it was found necessary to adjourn to the sidewalk in front of the court house. A chicken and the necessary joss sticks or wooden tapers were procured, and the latter stuck in the ground and lighted. While they were burning the prosecuting witness (the woman who had been robbed) held an animated consultation with the Rev. Mr. Nevin, court interpreter, after which two wax tapers were lighted, and, after being brought in contact with the neck of the chicken, were stuck in the ground. Now began the serious business. A formidable piece of yellow paper, covered with Chinese characters, was brought out and handed to Mr. Nevin, who declined to receive it, saying in English that if he or any white man read it the ceremony would lose much of its force, as the witnesses would claim that they had not understood him. The document was then tendered to several Chinamen, all of whom refused to read it, one saying in good English that he would not read the paper for a hundred thousand dollars.

Finally a Chinaman was found brave enough to undertake the office. He read the dread formula first to the woman, who repeated it as he read. At its conclusion a large bundle of paper, previously prepared, was lighted, over which the woman stepped a couple of times and then took possession of the chicken and the sacrificial knife, a cleaver-shaped implement, which had lain by the side of the fire during the reading of the oath. The male witnesses were then arranged in front of the fire, the oath was again read, each repeating it after the reader, who, after he had finished reading it, threw it on the fire. The Chinamen then, one by one, stepped over the fire, the head of the chicken was chopped off by the woman and the sacrifice was accomplished. We made an effort to get a translation of the oath, but were unsuccessful.

THE GAZETTE.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1878.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—No November after this week.

—The City Papers meet to-night.

—Clinton Wilcox is again happified. It is a boy again, and all well.

—Some of the boys who lounge around the streets ought to be better drilled in civil service.

—Regular meeting of the Knights of Honor, this evening. All members are requested to be present.

—Arrangements have been made for several snow balls this winter. Boys' band will furnish the music.

—James Hayden, of Haydenville, Mass., spent the Sunday in the city, the guest of Alderman McKinney.

—Rev. Jenk Ll. Jones will preach a Thanksgiving sermon at 11 o'clock a. m., on Thursday at All Souls church.

—Ingalls, charged with burglarizing Feltz' tailoring establishment was brought before Justice Prichard this afternoon for examination.

—Had that burglar been a few feet bigger, say about the size of the Norris house, he would have got a flesh wound. One of the bullets has been dug out of a window sill of that hotel.

—The Court Street Literary Society will have a free-for-all next Wednesday night at the Sunday school room. Electricity will be discussed, there being several participants selected to take different phases of the subject.

—Mrs. Noon's scholars in elocution gave an interesting public exhibition at her rooms Saturday night. The participants were Miss Lillian DeLong, Miss Ella Hutson, Miss Ida Davies, Miss Mary Barnard, Miss Lucy Conger, John McKey.

—Matt Greene is said to have been on a big hurrah, Saturday night, and to have indulged in a promiscuous and reckless slinging of stones, which sadly demoralized the glass in the front of Scheritsaw's saloon on East Milwaukee street. Matt was locked up at Colley's.

—It's all well enough to boast of how you would shoot a burglar if you had a chance, but just wait till you see one. You will find that you are like other folks and that you will swing your revolver as though it was a Roman candle, and fire it with about as much precision.

—The boys at one of the Engine houses were so greatly annoyed by the loud talk of an outsider who had too much chin that they shouted for him to "hire a hall." The officers chided them for thus forgetting their usual decorum, but their apology was that the case was too aggravating for silence.

—Mr. A. D. Hendrickson was surprised Saturday evening on finding his parlors filled with friends who by the invitation of his daughters had dropped in to help observe his birthday. Tokens were given him as a further observance of the day, and the evening was passed in a happy social manner.

—We are authorized by Engine Company No. 2 to say that they will stand up in line and let a would-be journalist fire at them all day at short range—say ten paces—at ten cents a shot, provided he will furnish his own ammunition. The Company is very particular about the last clause of the proposition, as they do not feel like incurring any large expense for powder and ball.

—Rev. Galusha Anderson, D. D., President of the Chicago University, spent the Sabbath in this city and preached yesterday at the Baptist church both morning and evening. As he was formerly pastor of the church here he has many friends who gladly greet him again. He is endeavoring to raise money for the University, and in this as in everything else he undertakes he is meeting with success.

—M. C. Smith & Son in another column state some facts and figures which should be read by all. Those desiring to purchase clothing should give the firm a call. Their stock embraces clothes for big folks and little folks, and their custom department is well equipped with good material and experienced workmen, so that all can be sure of securing a suit just to suit them. Smith & Son are having a lively trade, but that does not surprise anyone who is familiar with their figures.

—Miss Mary L. Johnson is anxious that all those who desire to take lessons in the decorative art should call on her at the Myers house at once, as she has received an invitation to place her specimens on exhibition under the auspices of the Decorative Art Society, of Chicago, and unless she has a class here to detain her, she cannot remain in the city longer than Wednesday of next week. She will exhibit her specimens at the Ladies' Art Club Tuesday afternoon. The lovers of art in Janesville should improve this opportunity of securing the instruction of so capable an artist as Miss Johnson.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 28 degrees above zero, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon at 35 above. Cloudy.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region and upper Mississippi valley, colder, light rain, or snow, followed by partly cloudy weather, colder northerly winds, followed by generally higher pressure.

JOTS OF JUSTICE.

The Circuit Court to-day was occupied with the case of Whitford vs. Goodrich which promises to take the entire week. The other jurymen are excused until next Monday.

In the case of Brown vs. Wilcox an effort is being made to have a new hearing of the case, but the court has not rendered any decision.

John Roethinger Jr., charged with burglary has applied for a change of venue, and it has been granted. The case will be tried in Walworth county. Bail was fixed at the sum of $800. This afternoon he is preparing to give bail.

CRAFTY CRACKSMEN.

Thieves Break Through But Don't Steal.

Bullets, a Fire-Alarm, and Restless Sleepers Spoil the Game.

Burglars seem to be on the raid, but thus far Janesville has proved a bad place for them. The officers have been on the alert, and Marshal Keating particularly has shown great shrewdness in working up cases of this kind, and capturing the offenders. The citizens too seem to be wide awake, and burglars rarely succeed in getting away with any plunder. They seem determined to keep trying though, and last Saturday night they were at their work. again.

About 1 o'clock Mr. Masse, who lives over his saloon on North Main street, was awakened by the sound of some one getting into his rooms. He rushed to the front window and gave the alarm, and noticing G. F. Selleck and young Dewey on the other side of the street called for them to come over. In the meantime Masse covered the exit of his stairway with his revolver, and as soon as the young men had crossed the street, he told them to stand at the foot of the stairway, and either grab or fire at the burglar, while he would go into the hall and run him down. The plan for a successful capture was thus ingeniously laid. As soon as Masse stepped into the hall, with a light in one hand and a revolver in the other, the burglar started down stairs quietly in his stocking feet, and darted out of the door. He slipped by Selleck who was standing there with a revolver in his hand, and started on the run up the street. In the meantime the watchman at the engine house had overheard the word "fire" in the early part of the conversation between Masse and the young men, and supposing there was a blaze sounded the alarm, and the crowd commenced to gather. As the burglar slipped by Selleck, the latter concluded not to grab him, but opened fire from his revolver. Everybody dodged, except those who stood in front of the shootist, where there was the least danger. Bullets whizzed in all directions except that taken by the burglar. He slickly slid down the street, and for a time made good his escape. The capture had been all planned, but the guard at the outer door had let the game slip. Marshal Keating and Abe Parker by this time had come upon the scene, and as the burglar had gone toward the north around the block, they started the other way to head him off, while others started in direct pursuit of the burglar. Marshal Keating learning that a man had just gone to room 32 at the Myers house hastened thither and arrested the occupant and locked him up. He had two pairs of stockings which were very muddy, and other suspicious articles. He claimed to be a traveling man from Chicago, and gave his name as Mason. Mr. Masse identified him as the same man who was in his saloon the previous evening. He claimed then that he wanted to find Fenner the machinist, to get his revolver. Masse lent him a lantern and the fellow started out with it. He came into the block occupied by the Gazette Printing Company, in which Fenner also has a room, and looked about, and it is also supposed that he went up into the hallway near Masse's room to get a view of the promised land. He was gone sometime, and on returning appeared very friendly indeed, and had a long talk with Masse about business and various matters. He then borrowed the key to the outhouse, and again taking the lantern went out there, and was gone some time. He returned, and bade Mr. Masse good night and departed. He thus evidently looked over the ground thoroughly before starting into the plot.

He is a young man of about 22 years of age, well dressed, and had about $54 in his pocket. He also has a key which resembles closely those used in unlocking shackles. He denied that he had anything to do with the attempted burglary, and claimed that he had just returned to the hotel from an evening's lark. His examination will not take place for a few days, the officers being busy getting evidence against him.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

A short time before this attempted burglary, the sleeping room of Levi P. Bliss, who travels for Bassett, Bliss & Echlin, was entered. The room is in Mitchell's block, and at the time it was entered Croft & Sherer's drugstore was still lighted, and some customers were being waited on, so the attempt to thus burglarize was a bold one. Bliss had drawn his bed up next to the door and was asleep. The burglars turned the key with a pair of nippers, pushed the door open and in doing so forced the bed back a foot and a half, and then entered. Bliss was awakened, and found one burglar bending over him, and another was crawling under the bed. He asked what was wanted and one replied that they had come for his bundle but as he was awake they thought they would not take it. He told them to "get" and they quickly got. Bliss recognizes the voice of the accused man as the same voice that informed him so coolly about his bundle.

STILL ANOTHER.

On the same evening as the burglary in Smith's block, narrated in Saturday evening's Gazette, burglars entered a residence on Academy street, the second door south of Milwaukee street. Mrs. B. F. Kelsey, who boards there, was aroused, and seeing two men in her room, asked what they wanted. One of the men very politely informed her that he had come after her purse, but as she was awake, he would not disturb her but would retire. He bid her good-night and walked out. The burglars secured no plunder.

A SMALL BLAZE.

Saturday night fire was discovered in a little frame building on Center street and owned by George Dann, and occupied as a storage place for coopers' stock. The engines promptly answered the alarm and speedily stopped the burning. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is supposed to be the work of an incendiary as there was no fire or light used in or about the place. The building and stock are uninsured, but the damage will not be heavy.

RECKLESS RIOTERS.

The Janesville Guards Under Marching Orders to Do Service for Their Country.

A Hurrying To and Fro and a Sound of Deviltry by Night.

Yesterday there were startling rumors of war and riot, and the hearts of the Janesville Guards pumped blood into their very finger tips. During the afternoon there were rumors that a fearful riot had broken out in Oshkosh among the lumbermen, and that there was a probability that the militiamen of this city might be called thither to help suppress it. In the evening as Captain Tom Croft was at Trinity church, peacefully reading the responses from his prayer book, a messenger entered and slipping up the aisle, slid a telegram between the Captain's eyes and the book, and quietly slipped out again. It read:

OSHKOSH, Nov. 24, 1878.

Captain Croft:—Our armory has been seized by the rioters. Three of our men killed, and others wounded. Get your company in readiness to receive marching orders.

G. H. ANDERSON.

The gallant Captain hastened out of church leaving the worshippers anxiously inquiring among each other what was the the matter. It soon became bruited about, and anxious mothers, and fond sisters, and some who were not sisters, improved the first opportunity given by the close of the service, to fall upon each others necks and weep at the terrible fate that awaited their sons, brothers, and lovers.

Meanwhile the noble Captain had met one of his non-commissioned officers, had detailed him and others to summon the members of the company, and issued orders that all should be ready for marching orders at 1 o'clock a. m. One was detailed to watch every outgoing train and hand car lest some of the boys should slip up to Oshkosh and put down the riot before the rest could get there. Another started in haste for Tom Lappin's house to get the key to Apollo hall and get their guns, left at the hall on the night of the dance. Those of the boys who had heard the news and gathered at the armory, were stood up against the wall, and made to practice in loading and firing. Those who had too much ague in their knees were allowed to drill sitting down, but these were few. Even the Surgeon and the Chaplain felt that they too must join in the campaign, and give such aid and consolation as the wounded and dying needed, and the medicine case and prayer book were packed side by side in peace, prepared for war.

It was an unfortunate time for such a call to come. If it had been any other evening, it would have been better. Sweet tete-a-tetes, with the gas turned low, were abruptly broken off. Some of the boys too were so circumstanced that they could not leave home on such short notice. One was afraid he would lose his job if he left town, and wanted to resign. But these were exceptions. Most of the boys were eager for the fray. Two of the rank and file who live several miles out on Milton avenue hurried in and made arrangements for a team to be sent out after them as soon as marching orders came. One of the boys was seen studying up an anatomical chart to see where was the most vulnerable spot of a lumberman. At the Captain's store was gathered a crowd waiting for further news over the wires. One of the city fathers came rushing down from home and on finding that there was evidently business on hand, told the Captain he would start on the 4 o'clock freight train for Oshkosh, and would probably get there before the boys did, as he didn't believe marching orders would come before day light. His friends vainly tried to convince him that his life was too precious to be thus endangered, but he would not be persuaded, and started home again after his gripsack and horse pistol. It finally leaked out that the whole thing was a horrible hoax, and the gallant Guards slowly scattered for home. Enough was shown by the test, however, to convince all that most of the boys were eager for gore, and would not flinch when called to the front. The few who winced will not soon hear the last of the Oshkosh riot and will doubtless brace up nobly the next time a call to arms is sounded. One of the valiants went home after his overcoat, but strangely enough he could not find it till after breakfast this morning. A few others were sadly delayed from various causes, but all are now ready to march.

Liver is King.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action, all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movements of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system, are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. Sample bottles to try, 10 cents. Positively sold in all towns on the Western Continent. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The President Appoints Thursday, November 28th.

By the President of the United States—A Proclamation:

The recurrence of that season at which it is the habit of our people to make devout and public confession of their constant dependence on Divine favor for all good gifts of life and happiness, and of public peace and prosperity, as exhibited in the record of the year, the abundant reasons for our gratitude and thanksgiving, the exuberant harvests, the productive mines, ample crops, of the staples of trade and manufactures which have enriched the country; the resources thus far furnished to our reviving industry and expanding commerce, and hastening the day when discord and distresses through the length and breadth of the land will, under the continued favor of Providence, have given way to confidence and energy and assured prosperity; peace with all nations has remained unbroken; domestic tranquility has prevailed, and the institutions of liberty and justice which the wisdom and virtue of our fathers established, remain the glory and the defense of their children. The general prevalence of the blessings of health throughout our wide land has made more conspicuous the sufferings and sorrows which the dark shadow of pestilence has cast on a portion of our people. This heavy affliction even the Divine Ruler has tempered to the suffering communities by the universal sympathy and succor which have flowed to their relief, and the whole nation may rejoice in the unity of spirit in our people by which they cheerfully share one another's burdens.

Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the 28th day of November next, as a day of National thanksgiving and prayer, and I earnestly recommend that, withdrawing themselves from secular cares and labors, the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutedly beseech their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this 30th day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and the independence of the United States one hundred and third.

[SEAL.] R. B. HAYES.

By the President.

WM. M. EVARTS, Secretary of State.

A Medicine Chest for 25 Cents.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a good cathartic. SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS are prepared expressly to meet this necessity; being composed of purely vegetable ingredients, of which Podophyllin or Mandrake, Pine Tree Tar, Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock and other concentrated juices enter largely into their composition; the whole strength of which is extracted on an entirely new principle. They are mild in their operation, produce no griping, and are truly a valuable purgative aperient, anti-bilious and cathartic medicine They stimulate the liver to healthy action, cleanse the stomach and bowels of all impurities. Curing sick and nervous headache, dyspepsia or indigestion, bilious, intermittent, remittent and congestive fevers, languor, drowsiness, aching pains in the back, head, slight chills, with flushes of heat, female irregularities, and for a bilious and costive habit, no medicine is so prompt and effectual as DR. SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS. If your druggist or storekeeper has not got them, or will not procure them for you, we will forward them by mail on receipt of price, (in currency or postage stamps), 25 cents a box, or five boxes for $1.
